THE BATH ENCLOSURE MANUFACTURERS ASSOCIATION...

your partner in the bath enclosure industry

Leading the Industry Into the Future

As the only organization dedicated specifically to representing the bath enclosure manufacturers, suppliers and dealers, BEMA has led the industry's effort to develop construction and performance standards for bath enclosures, an important first step, but by no means the last. Once adopted, standards require perpetual monitoring and maintenance to insure they reflect new technologies and materials. The same is true of regulation, be it laws or the building codes, they never stop evolving. Product promotion, standards and regulations are fundamental to all organizations representing building product manufacturers, suppliers and dealers.

BEMA remains flexible and will continue to identify and respond to the evolving needs of the bath enclosure industry and its members, but it's core activities will continue to consume the bulk of its resources on an annual basis.

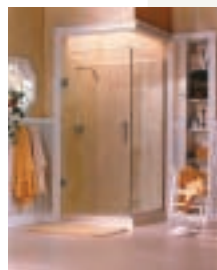

As a collaborative international glass and glazing organization committed to the advancement of the manufacture and installation of tub and shower enclosures, BEMA is uniquely positioned to lead the bath enclosure industry for the foreseeable future and is looking to the manufacturers, suppliers and dealers to support its efforts to promote and protect the industry's interest.

BEMA was organized in 1992 to promote bath enclosures as the more efficient, healthier means of controlling shower water and residue. As the bath enclosure industry grew, its needs expanded and professional management was retained in 1998. While product promotion remains a major focus, BEMA has recognized and is addressing the need for construction and performance standards and for guarding against the unreasonable regulation of its products. While these activities are essential to the continued growth of bath enclosure usage, they are expensive and require constant attention.

THE VALUE OF MEMBERSHIP

BEMA is the collective energy of those bath enclosure manufacturers, suppliers and dealers committed to doing what needs to be done to insure that bath enclosures continue to enjoy wide-spread acceptance and use by consumers and builders. It serves to focus the industry, is the forum for reaching consensus and provides the means for garnering needed resources. It is the one place where every voice matters and every voice has an opportunity to be heard. BEMA is the voice of the industry, but it needs access to the individual knowledge and experience of members to be effective, so get onboard, and have your say.
